The Influencing Machine by Brooke Gladstone. Brooke Gladstone's The Influencing Machine is a non-fiction comic about the media. The book's structure owes much to Scott McCloud's Understanding Comics: a cartoon version of Gladstone herself addresses readers directly and guides them on a journey through the history of journalism (mostly US-focused, but still of interest to this European reader), culminating in a discussion of the many issues surrounding the media in the present day.

Looking at the Media as a mirror, in these times, is important. Brooke Gladstone invites us to understand that, "The fault, dear [Public], is not in our stars, But in ourselves." (Julius Caesar). The Influencing Machine: Brooke Gladstone on the Media is an invitation for us to make positive change. Because how can we change what we loath, for the better, if we can not see that so much of what we see and hear in the Media is a reflection of ourselves, and thus, we have the power to change ...
