The setting of a story should fit the actual story; things, events, or objects within a story's setting should not feel out of place to the reader, based on prior knowledge of a place or time period. For example, does the Volkswagen on the bumpy road carry a car full of lawbreakers? They'll probably not want to draw attention.

The setting of a story is the environment your characters are in. The location, time, and weather all play major points in a story, and a well-described setting can make it more interesting for your readers to completely immerse themselves in the fictional world you've created. When you describe your setting, use detailed language and have your characters interact with it to engage your readers.
